A diagram of a human dental arch, likely a maxillary (upper) arch, viewed from the front. The teeth are numbered 1 through 8 on both sides, starting from the central incisors (1) and moving towards the molars (8). The arch is divided into four quadrants by a vertical line (H) and a horizontal line (G). The labels H, G, B, and D are placed at the corners of the arch, indicating the quadrants: H (top-left), G (top-right), B (bottom-left), and D (bottom-right).
